Why did England Stop the Rebel Bams? To the Editor of The N. Y. Tribune.

Eaglish Government has been attributed to various causes, all of which probably had some effect in securing the final result. But the steps which, in all likelihood, decided the action of the authorities, and insured a policy favorable to the North, has not, so far as I am aware, been made public.

The truth of the statement which follows may be implicitly relied on. It was made to me by a distinguished American citizen, who has just returned from England, where he enjoyed peculiar facilities for becoming acquainted with the less public affairs of the two countries. Some on Credit and strictly with the Trade.

The Morton Gold Pens are the only ones sold at old prices, so the makers of all other gold pens charge the Premium on the Gold, Government Tax, &c., but Morton has in no case changed his prices, Wholesale or Retail.

Of the great numbers sent by mail to all parts of the world during the past few years, not one in a thousand has failed to reach its destination in safety; showing that the Morton Gold Pens are the only ones sold at old prices, so the makers of all other gold pens charge the Premium on the Gold, Government Tax, &c., but Morton has in no case changed his prices, Wholesale or Retail.

While Mr. Seward was absent on the excursion in which he was accompanied by certain of the diplomatic corps, President Lincoln wrote the following (unofficial) letter to Mr. Adams, our Minister to England. Like most of the President's pithy letters it was very brief, and ran substantially as follows:

Pen can be ebtained by any one, in every part of the world, at the same price, postage only excepted.

Reader, you can have a menturing, always ready, and reliable Gold Pen, exactly adapted to your hand and style of writing, which will do your writing vastly cheaper than Steel Pens, and the present almost universal High-Pressure Price of everything, you can have a Merton Gold Pen cheaper, in proportion to the labor spent upon it and material used, than any other Gold Pen in the World. If you want one, see the "Pen is Mightier than the Sword," in another column.
